Barrel storage patent

SEQUIM — John McNulty has received a patent from the U.S. Patent Office for his rotatable barrel storage units.

Innovation Law Group Ltd. assisted McNulty in obtaining the patent.

The storage units are made from new or reconditioned wood stave barrels.

They feature storage shelving, drawers, wine racks and lazy susans, which are fitted into the interior and accessible from one side.

The barrel is mounted on a rotating platform that is hidden by the barrel lip.

McNulty barrel storage units are on display at Olympic Cellars, 255410 U.S. Highway 101 in Port Angeles, and at Innovation Law Group Ltd., 237 N Sequim Ave.
