

Briefly . . .

Lavender group gets trademark

SEQUIM — The Sequim Lavender Growers Association has registered “Lavender Capital of North America” as a federal trademark.

The trademark was issued to the association on the basis of arranging agricultural and educational conferences relating to all aspects of lavender cultivating — and for using lavender products for medicinal and culinary purposes in gardening and landscaping, according to Innovation Law Group Ltd. of Sequim.

Innovation assisted the association in obtaining the trademark.

For more information, phone 360-681-3035.